Adam Agostini is an associate with Brown & James, P.C., in the firm's St. Louis office. In practice, he focuses on healthcare liability and medical malpractice defense for hospitals, doctors, and other health professionals.

Mr. Agostini grew up in St. Louis and graduated from the University of Colorado-Boulder before working as a chemist for an industrial coatings manufacturer in Dallas, Texas. He continued working there until he returned to St. Louis to pursue his legal career at Saint Louis University School of Law. While in law school, he received Certificates in Business Transactional Law, Entrepreneurship Law, and Intellectual Property Law. Outside the office, he enjoys trying new local restaurants, playing the piano and guitar, and hiking.
