Carruthers & Roth Adds New Associate to Its Litigation Practice

April 23, 2018

GREENSBORO, N.C. – Today Carruthers & Roth, P.A. announced that attorney Trisha L. Barfield has joined the firm’s commercial and business litigation practice. She will be working on matters involving shareholders, construction projects, employment, contracts and liens, estates, and insurance claims.

“We are delighted to have Trisha on our team and know she will provide great support to our business and commercial clients,” said Pat Haywood, a commercial litigator who leads the firm’s Construction Industry Team.

Trisha worked as a “resident in practice” at Carruthers & Roth while earning her degree at the Elon University School of Law. She also served as a student attorney for a Small Business and Entrepreneurship Clinic and as a legal intern for both The Carroll Companies and Legal Aid of North Carolina. She received her undergraduate degree from Methodist University.

Trisha can be reached at tlb@crlaw.com or at 336.478.1176.
