

We are so grateful to New York Community trust for their generous funding of our advocacy efforts at God's Love We Deliver. New York Community Trust announced via twitter today that they are supporting God's Love in our quest to advocate for Medicaid coverage of medically tailored home-delivered meals for the chronically ill. We are thrilled that New York Community trust recognizes the importance of medically tailored home-delivered meals for the most vulnerable in our community and understands how vital it is that our services are incorporated into the care continuum for the highest risk, highest need Medicaid recipients. We have been working toward this incorporation for a long time, not only within our organization, but also in conjunction with the Food is Medicine Coalition across the nation. Please follow our blog for updates and follow the Food is Medicine Coalition on twitter.
