John Narron and his wife Beth donate conservation easements to the Triangle Land Conservancy

April 13, 2012 | by

Our partner John Narron is known for his love of the natural beauty of the great outdoors. This passion led him along with his wife Beth to recently donate conservation easements to the Triangle Land Conservancy in support of their mission to protect important open space—stream corridors, forests, wildlife habitat, farmland and natural areas—in Chatham, Durham, Johnston, Lee, Orange and Wake counties.

The couple donated the conservation easements on two Johnston County farms that have been in his family for generations, located on the Little River south of Wendell near his home. Mr. Narron's generosity was helped by mini-grants from the Clean Water Management Trust Fund, by an Environmental Enhancement Grant from the NC Attorney General's Office, and by a grant from Johnston County.
