

Property Tax Valuation

In handling real estate taxation matters, our goal is to help every client obtain the lowest possible real estate tax liability allowed by law. Although taxes are certain, the extent of your tax liability may depend on the actions you take.

Tuggle Duggins represents clients in property tax valuation appeals challenging their property's market value throughout North Carolina and in surrounding states. Our services include evidence compilation and negotiations with assessment officials at the county and state level, and representation in hearings before administrative bodies such as county boards of equalization and review and the North Carolina Property Tax Commission. Our attorneys offer experienced counsel on the real estate tax consequences in complex purchase and leasing transactions.

We handle all types of properties, including commercial office buildings, retail properties, hotels, hospitals, restaurants, industrial properties, leasehold interests, apartment and condominium complexes, vacant properties, and ongoing construction projects.
