

IBM's Chief Data Office VP to Headline November's 'C-Suite Perspective Series'

November 9, 2018

C-Suite Perspective Series returns this month with valuable insight from Tim Humphrey, the vice president of IBM's Chief Data Office.

The event, hosted by the Greater Raleigh Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by Ward and Smith, allows senior-level executives to share knowledge about climbing the corporate ladder.

For Humphrey, his journey started after graduating from North Carolina State University with a degree in electrical engineering in 1996. He has amassed more than 20 years of global experience in the computing industry. Humphrey currently serves on the Wake County Boys & Girls Clubs Board of Directors and the University of the North Carolina's World View Advisory Board. He is also the senior state executive for IBM and the senior location executive for IBM in RTP.

C-Suite Perspective starts at 7:30 on Friday, November 16 at the Umstead Hotel and Spa in Cary. The event is for Chamber members only.
