When Deana Labriola accepted her Women in Business award from Triangle Business Journal, she was asked where she saw herself in 2020. “I’m a problem solver, and in 2020, I see myself doing just that – helping my business owners solve real problems ... I get to experience growth and obstacles with them and I really enjoy that. Problem solving is already so much of what I am and what I do that I don’t imagine that changing in 2020,” responded Labriola. She and the other winners were recognized on April 24 at the Raleigh Crabtree Marriott during a luncheon held in their honor.

Triangle Business Journal provided extensive coverage of the event on their website, which can be viewed here.
