

Angela Doughty Recognized as a 'IP Star' for North Carolina

Written By Angela P. Doughty, CIPP/US, AIGP (apd@wardandsmith.com)

May 21, 2019

Managing Intellectual Property magazine is honoring intellectual property attorney Angela Doughty for her outstanding working her field.

She is named as an IP Star for North Carolina in the upcoming edition of IP Stars 2019/20. This is the second consecutive year Angela was selected by this publication to receive recognition.

IP Stars is the leading specialist guide to firms and practitioners in intellectual property. They published their first IP firm rankings in 1996, covering fewer than 30 jurisdictions. Today, their rankings publication is the most comprehensive and authoritative analysis of the IP legal market yet published, featuring several IP practice areas and more than 80 jurisdictions. The research for IP Stars is conducted by an experienced team of research analysts and journalists in their offices in Hong Kong, London, and New York. You can read more about the publication's research methodology here.