

Ward and Smith, P.A.'s Hayley R. Wells Selected for 2016 NCBA Leadership Academy

March 2, 2016

Ward and Smith, P.A. is pleased to announce that attorney Hayley R. Wells was selected by the North Carolina Bar Association for participation in its 2016 Leadership Academy. This annual statewide program is capped at 16 participants, thus making admission competitive.

Ms. Wells joins previous Leadership Academy graduates Lauren Taylor Arnette, Samuel B. Franck, and William A. Oden, III as representatives of Ward and Smith in this prestigious program.

Ms. Wells' practice primarily focuses on labor and employment law and alcoholic beverage law. She regularly advises individual and corporate clients in matters of covenants not to compete, employment discrimination, discipline and termination, harassment, wrongful discharge, wage and hour matters, and personnel policies and procedures. Ms. Wells also advises brewery and craft alcoholic beverage clients in various aspects of the law including permitting, regulatory compliance, and personnel issues.
