

Lauren N. Watson

Attorney

Bio

Lauren is a member of the firm's Privacy & Data Security practice group. She dedicates her practice to assisting clients with matters including data security incident response, data breach notification, preparation of privacy policies and notices, negotiation of data protection agreements, and compliance with all aspects of privacy and data security laws and regulations, such as the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA), Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA), and Truth in Caller ID Act, as well as other state and federal laws regulating the collection, storage, use, sharing, and protection of personal information.

Lauren received both her J.D. and B.A. in Political Science and History, with distinction, from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. During law school, Lauren served as a Senior Staff Editor with the North Carolina Journal of International Law and earned American Jurisprudence Awards in both Cybersecurity Law and International Law Foundations. Prior to joining the firm, Lauren spent several years practicing civil litigation at a firm in Oklahoma City.

Lauren is admitted to practice in Oklahoma and Washington, D.C.

Contact

lwatson@wyrick.com
919.882.7147

Practice Areas

- Privacy & Data Security

Recent Insights

Recent posts from our privacy and data security blog, Practical Privacy.

- No COPPA Outs: The FTC Casts its Eye on Educational Technology Tools

Speeches & Publications

- "The New Trojan War: Defensive Cybersecurity and the Need for Offensive Measures," paper presented at the 8th Annual Strategic Studies Symposium, National Defense University College, Ft. Bragg, NC (May 2018).
-